

A group of students are planning what they call a “Palestine Solidarity Conference” on this campus. It is one in a series of conferences across the country calling for a divest-from-Israel campaign with the goal of destroying Israel's economy and therefore Israel itself in what can best be described as economic terrorism.

The sponsors will tell you they are benevolent, yet their own book, 'Peace Under Fire', validates their belief in “Armed Struggle” (see page 20) which is what Hamas, Islamic Jihad and other terrorist groups call their terrorism.

The conference also advocates and promotes the spread of a foreign-nation based boycott in the US, which is illegal. According to US law, no one in the US may supply information to, act in support of or comply with a boycott that is sponsored by a foreign country, such as the Arab League's official boycott of Israel, to boycott a nation friendly to the US. The law is in place to prevent foreign countries from imposing their foreign policy on the US.

The conference is directly engaged in promoting the divest-from-Israel campaign and is therefore in violation of US law. Participation or sponsorship of the conference may therefore result in fines, penalties and prosecution by the US Department of Commerce.

Don't allow people to claim to be politically correct and expose you to fraud and illegal activity. Expose them instead and stop the fraud conference.
